

China EPower is the leading comprehensive power exhibition in China, covering power generation, power transmission and distribution, power automation and plant construction, energy conservation with emphasis on environmental protection, and of course a wide range of electric products including products used in security and surveillance installations. China EPower has grown to be one of the largest exhibitions for global level power industry players in the world. Each exhibition attracts a wide range of participants from around the world. This years event, the 11th edition of China EPower, will be held at Shanghai New International Expo Center, Asia's largest exhibition center.